LITURGY OF THE DAY

INTRODUCTION. In our political and commercial world, it appears that humility is not a virtue. In today's Gospel, Jesus tells us otherwise. As we gather for worship today at our loving God's invitation, it might be good to step back from advertisements and exhortations that encourage us to exalt ourselves, and instead pray for the humility of Christ in all our daily interactions.

Our first reading and Gospel deliver a very clear message about practicing what we preach. Imagine being a scribe or Pharisee and hearing Jesus tell the people to ignore what you do and only do what you preach! As we hear this word, let us each examine our own lives. Do we do what God asks of us, or do we only pay lip service to God's commands?

REFLECTION. What an indictment of Israel's priests Malachi presents, condemning both their personal lifestyle and their failure to care for God's people! Bad enough that they "turned aside from the way, and . . . made void the covenant" (2:8). The ripple effect on the community's spiritual life is worse: You "have caused many to falter by your instruction (2:8). Our every action has an effect, positive or negative, on the whole community: "Have we not all the one father? Has not the one God created us?" (2:10). Thus, for Malachi, the priests' failures are not only personal violations of "the covenant of our fathers," though they are certainly that, but a very real "break(ing) faith with one another" (2:10).

In Matthew, the priests of Malachi's prophecy have become the scribes and Pharisees of Jesus' time. In the performance of their works, says Jesus, the scribes and Pharisees rely on titles (Rabbi, teacher, father, Master) and trappings (wider phylacteries, longer tassels) to guarantee by custom a respect they no longer command by example. Listening to this Gospel reading now, today's Church needs to hear these hard sayings of Jesus with a humility that does not let us off the hook. For instance, doesn't Malachi's lament about scandalous failures exposing the community's leaders to contempt hit uncomfortably close to home? Less spectacularly, how many laypeople, hungry for gospel wisdom, Catholic teaching, and the Church's liturgy, have found themselves the captive audience of an egotistic cleric, imposing on them his version of each? It should go without saying that committed laity, no less than the clergy, also need to take today's scriptural critique to heart.

In one of his early "parishes," some two thousand years ago, Paul tried to be as gentle "as a nursing mother," serving "with such affection" that he shared not only "the gospel of God, but our very selves" (1 Thessalonians 2:7,8). Paul strove not to be a burden, indeed to embrace "toil and drudgery," so that the word of God he preached would ring true (2:9). An ideal that all of us—clergy and laity—can take to heart and put into practice.

From the Desk of Fr. Philip

QUESTION OF THE WEEK

When I think about the ministry I undertake in my community of faith, how can I ensure that it always reflects the word of God and not my own agenda?

CZECHFEST FOLLOW-UP/ EVALUATION

All parishioners are invited to the follow-up meeting of Czechfest on Thursday, November 9, 2017 at 6:30 p.m. in the I. C. Hall. All the different committees will report on their respective areas. Evaluation of Czechfest is important to improve our time and efforts spent on our parish fundraiser. Come and bring your comments and suggestions, and most importantly commit to helping with Czechfest next year on October 7, 2018. Contact Sidney Faas or Gary Clarke if you have any questions. Thank you and God bless.
